

Northwest MO Hotspot - Maryville

Discovering Employment Trends with Local Employment Dynamics (LED)

Maryville is an economic and employment center for the Northwest region of Missouri. This report details the workers and industries that make this place a hotspot of economic activity.

Northwest Employment Hotspots

Northwest WIA Region

St. Joseph, Maryville, and Chillicothe form the largest concentrations of employment in the Northwest Workforce Investment Area.

Workforce Investment Areas are the result of the federal Workforce Investment Act of 1998 (WIA) which funds a number of employment and training programs across the nation.

In 2003, 79 percent of all workers in the Northwest region were employed in the private sector. This means that 21 percent were employed in the public sector. Over 45 percent of the private sector workers were employed in the cities of St. Joseph (35.1%), Maryville (6.4%) and Chillicothe (4.7%).

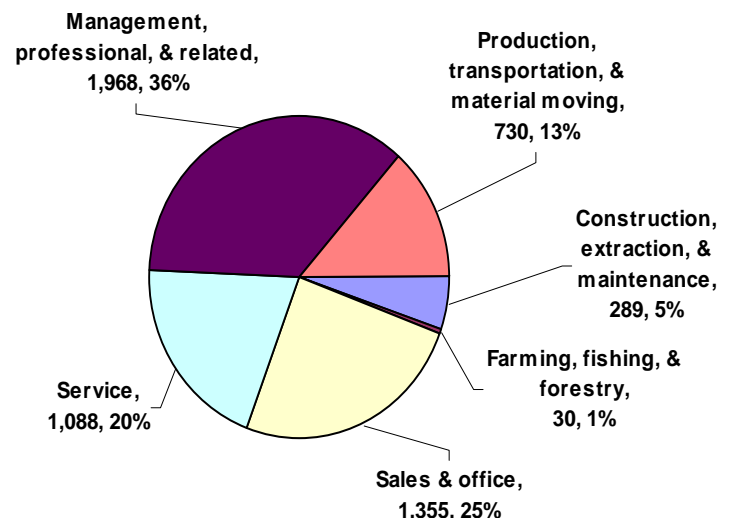

Maryville Census Overview

In 2000, Maryville had a population of 10,525 with a median age of 22.7 years old. Most residents were employed in management and professional occupations (36.0%) and 87.6 percent had a high school education or higher.

Where do Maryville's Workers Live?

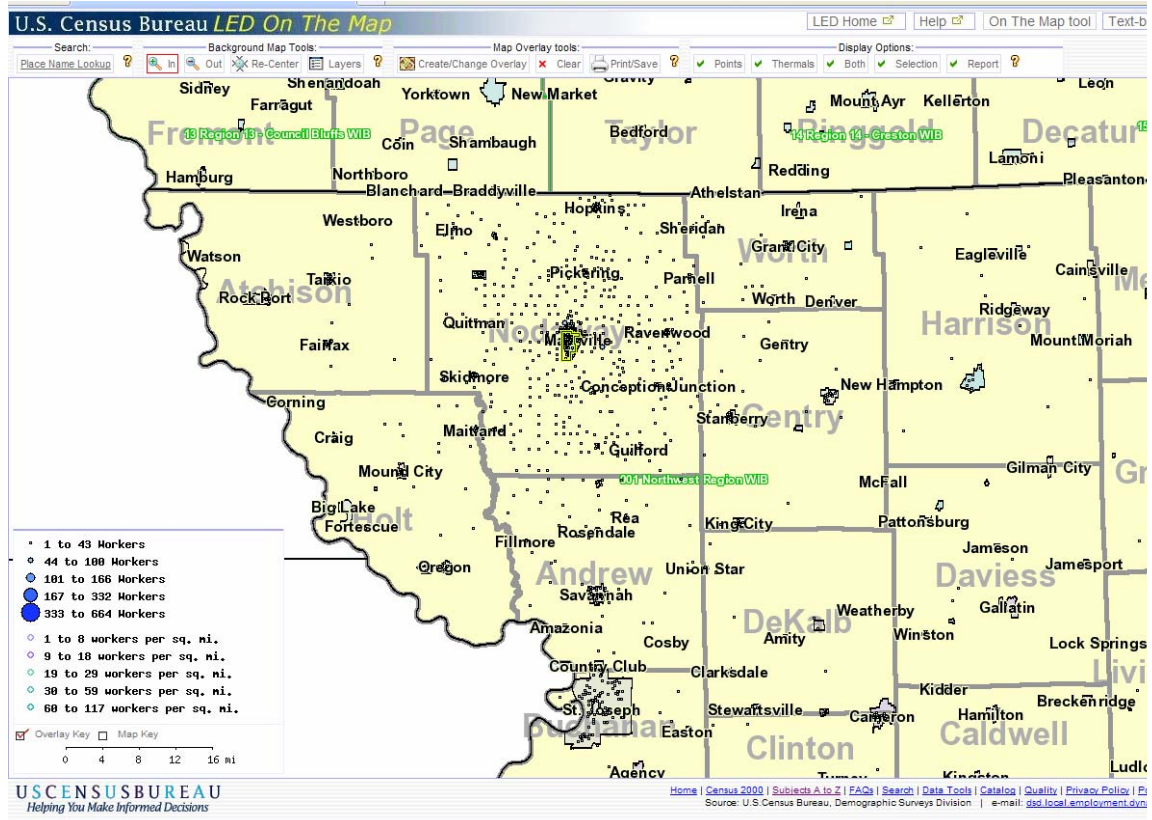

Maryville gets nearly a quarter of its workers (23.7%) from within Maryville. It is also notable that Maryville draws over 6 percent of its workforce from outside of Missouri.

The Local Employment Dynamics (LED) program is a partnership between the U.S. Census Bureau and the agencies in each state that generate and analyze labor market information. The LED On-the-Map tool allows you to designate either an area where workers work and determine where they live, or designate where residents live and determine where those workers commute.
